ENGLAND MAY BE NEXT

Continuing their lightning war of attack by airplanes, tanks, and motorized artillery and infantry, German armies have completed the conquest of Holland and have trapped about a million French, Belgian, and British soldiers in western Belgium and northwestern France.

According to German claims, their army has reached the English Channel coast of France, at Abbeville, and German planes are bombing coastal cities to prevent escape of British soldiers by ships to England. Nazi officers boasted that they would destroy British soldiers now in France and Belgium either on the battle field, in the coastal cities, or on the sea when they take to their ships.

Meanwhile, the French chanced army commanders, and fought desperately in counter attacks in an attempt to halt the German drive, with no success apparent as yet. A French general declared that if they could hold out a month they would be three quarters of the way to victory, but to a neutral observer it would seem doubtful that France can hold out a month—especially if Italy attacks her on the east, as will probably happen if that is necessary to German victory. Yesterday the German armies were within about 50 miles of Paris.

However, it appeared likely that now the British have more to fear than the French from the wrath of Hitler. As soon as German forces have completed occupation of sea and air ports on the French and Belgian coasts opposite the British Isles, there will probably follow an unendurable bombing attack which will soon either bring the British government to its knees or drive it out of England.

Of course, there yet remains the possibility that England and France may accomplish a near miracle and snatch victory from defeat, but at the moment it would seem to be a very unlikely possibility.

And after France and England—what? The United States, under the leadership of President Roosevelt, is at last starting on an airplane building program which would provide a reasonable measure of defense—if we are given time to finish it, to the other nations which waited too long to start getting ready for defense have been attacked before their plans could be carried out.

At such a time, it is a sad spectacle to witness attempts to stir up confusion, divisions, disloyalty, among Americans. Especially distressing was a recent pro-German attack on American defense measures in a radio speech by Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh, one time hero of thousands of American boys. It may be remembered that only a few years ago Lindbergh was accepting honors and decoration at the hands of Nazi officials.

ADULT EDUCATION
The adult education program has long ago passed the experimental stage. It has been definitely proven that adult education classes have caused increased school attendance. In one community the highest percentage of attendance in the regular school system was 68 but after classes for adults had been started the attendance reached within 86 within a few months. These parents had simply made the discovery that education is important.

There are many ways in which adult education pays. With millions pressing for employment and our economic and social structure undergoing a change the illiterate and unskilled laborer finds it almost impossible to find jobs even in the lowest pay brackets. The adult education training has enabled many to improve their position in life by assisting them to get better jobs or giving them the training leading to employment.

Every unskilled laborer forcibly reminds us of lost opportunities and small wages. Nothing can be more wasteful than to have a large number of unskilled, uninformed people blundering thru life at the expense of the public and bringing into the world another generation incapable of self-support. Anything that limits the earnings and contributions of an individual to democracy cripples the economic strength of the country. In order to bring back some of these lost opportunities and more fully prepare adults for the duties and responsibilities of life the adult education program was launched.

In the United States 29,000 teachers of adult education are teaching 1,080,000 students. There are 1,494 nursery teachers with 44,100 children enrolled throughout the nation. Employed in the state of Kentucky are 830 WPA adult education teachers imparting knowledge to 1,933 classes of adults with an enrollment of 27,899. There are 41 nursery schools in the state with an enrollment of 1,178. The adult education program in Kentucky has actually provided educational opportunities for 239,205 adults and decreased illiteracy by something like 36,000. It has assisted 1,339 to jobs as a result of the training received in this work. This program has also provided training in leadership; improved health of nursery school children; improved home conditions; provided health and first aid training; provided cultural and academic classes for thousands who felt a need for this type of training and made possible the training of teachers in special methods and techniques of teaching adults and nursery school children. Our own county is receiving these and many other services from the WPA education program.

The Courier offers hearty congratulations to Mr. Gardner and sincere appreciation to Governor Johnson for an excellent appointment.

RED CROSS APPEAL

The following telegrams are self-explanatory:

Washington, D. C., May 10, 1940
Rev. Rosco Brong
Chm. American Red Cross
West Liberty, Ky.

With the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg the war has entered a phase which will inevitably and at once bring wide spread and appalling suffering to millions of helpless men, women and children. In order to inaugurate wide spread relief measures the American Red Cross is at once launching a campaign for a minimum war relief fund of ten million dollars. Your chapter quota is three hundred dollars. Please at once mobilize the entire leadership of your chapter and community in order that your quota may be raised and exceeded without delay. Chapter may retain 15 percent of collections to cover their local war relief expenses. Letter of instruction follows. Signed, NORMAN H. DAVIS.

Washington, D. C., May 21, 1940
Rev. Rosco Brong
West Liberty, Ky.

With several million men locked in mortal combat on French and Belgian soil the relief needs of Belgium and French people are reaching staggering proportions. Already five million pitiful refugees are clogging every road into central southern France, trying to escape bombing and strafing from airplanes. Our reports from France show thousands dying by roadside of wounds, frost and hunger. American Red Cross must rush relief of every kind to these innocent people who are saved. We are expecting millions of dollars in money and supplies but we need more and bigger contributions to carry on. Cannot urge upon you too strongly need for prompt action if we are to befriend these sorely tried victims of brutal warfare. We count upon you to reach and over subscribe your goal within shortest possible time. Every day's delay means hundreds may die because we have not brought them aid in their saddest hour.

NORMAN H. DAVIS

These appeals represent an urgent need and Morgan county should nobly respond to the call. Do not wait for someone to come after your contribution—send or bring it direct to Yandall Weather, treasurer, at West Liberty, or to me.

ROSCO BRONG, Chairman Morgan County Chapter American Red Cross.

LADIES' AID MEETS
The Ladies' Aid Society of the Cannel City Union church held its regular business meeting Thursday, May 9, at the home of Mrs. G. W. Leslie.

The meeting opened with silent prayer. After roll call, reading of minutes and a report, the business for the afternoon was held with the program was led by Mrs. Leslie. The program was our most cherished members, who are leaving for Charlottesville, Virginia, to make her home.

Miss Minor's favorite song "Sweet Home of Prayer" was sung, after which Mrs. J. D. Whiteaker led in prayer. Mrs. Leslie gave the devotional using for her subject "Ye Apart." Mrs. A. C. Carter and a very fitting tribute to Miss Minor, emphasizing how much her beautiful Christian life has meant to our community. As a token of affection (a letter) an autograph album was given to Miss Minor, the presentation being made by Mrs. Whiteaker with well chosen remarks. A letter from Mrs. W. T. Stamper was read, expressing in a very appropriate manner the high regard in which our membership holds Miss Minor. The meeting closed by joining hands and singing "Blest Be the Tie that Bonds."

Mrs. Whiteaker gave the benediction. The guests were invited to the dining room, where a delicious tea course was served. The table held a centerpiece of tulips and was lighted with long white tapers in crystal holders.

Hugh Minor, who also is leaving for Virginia to make his home, joined the group for tea. Mr. Minor has lived at Cannel City for thirty-six years and it is with deepest regret that we see him leave. He has been the highest type of Christian living. He has served as teacher and as superintendent of our Sunday school for many years and has been a loyal supporter of the Ladies Aid. Mr. Minor gave an impressive talk as a farewell to his friends.

Present were Mrs. J. D. Whiteaker, Mrs. A. C. Carter, Miss Sallie Minor, Mrs. D. P. Peyton, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. G. W. Leslie, Mrs. Katie Sebastian, Mrs. Lonnie Patrick, Mrs. W. T. Stamper, Mrs. Inez Donovan, Miss Oma Zornes, Miss Maxine Zornes, Coleen Patrick, Hugh Minor and G. W. Leslie.

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

Poor and unimproved pastures are the greatest hindrances to economical production in many herds in this area, says J. F. Cosby, tester for the Hardin county dairy herd improvement association.

To help prevent plant bed diseases, men working in beds should not use or otherwise handle barn-cured tobacco either day or night. Even their clothes should be brushed, especially their pockets. Most manufactured tobacco is safe to use.

Excesses should be avoided in seasoning meat. Its own delicious flavor really needs no embellishment to make it the best in the world. Even salt is unnecessary. A meal with meat "sticks to the ribs."

If lye is used to clean drain pipes, the pipes must be flushed immediately with plenty of hot water. Otherwise the lye will combine with the grease to form hard soap that will clog the pipe. Lye will damage china plumbing fixtures.

A baby does not need shoes until walking time. Shoes put on before then, generally for appearance, often do more harm than good. The first walking shoes should have flexible but firm soles, and broad enough to be a steady platform under each foot. Pigs should weigh 2½ pounds or more at birth. Smaller pigs are likely to be weak. Since largest loss of pigs takes place in the first weeks of their lives, the stronger the pig the greater the possibility of raising it.

THE GARDEN

The Mexican Bean Beetle and the Striped Cucumber Beetle

These two insects are discussed together because they have in common one characteristic, that of adroitness. However, both are easily outwitted by the gardener who is willing to follow to the letter the control method worked out by the experiment station.

Several things make the bean beetle more difficult to stop than other insects. One is that all its feeding is done on the under sides of the foliage, but a sprayer or a duster with an upturned nozzle easily puts the control material where it is effective.

Another is the speed with which this insect multiplies. Few gardeners become even aware of its presence before the leaves are in great measure destroyed. So, the thing to do is to use the sign of the first egg-cluster as a signal to give the first spraying. Thus, the eggs that are there, and those that will be laid, are surrounded with poison easily accessible to the spiny larva as soon as they hatch. One dare not wait until the leaves are chewed into lace curtain designs.

Still another difficulty, though a minor one, is that because of the tenderness of bean leaves, one is restricted to using magnesium arsenate for sprays, and calcium arsenate, for dusts.

Thus, the control of the bean beetle is summed up as follows (and see Kentucky Circulars 257 and 343):

1. Use only safe materials.
2. Use apparatus with upturned nozzles.
3. Start when the first eggs come, and repeat in ten days, after the last eggs have been laid.

If dusting or spraying must be done after pods have formed, no arsenicals should be used, but only rotenone, deadly to insects but harmless to humans.

As for the cucumber beetle, its adroitness lies in that its damage becomes apparent so long after it is done, quite too late to remedy it. The complaint is every year state-wide that cucumbers and the others of that family "die overnight." That they die is true, but the dying actually begins when the first seedlings begin breaking thru. Then it is that the adult beetles lay eggs among the seedlings, hatching out pink, brown-headed larvae that begin to feed immediately. Some seedlings are destroyed outright, but others whose side roots are partly consumed manage to get along until the tops have reached the feeding limits of the remaining roots, but then die.

Now, inasmuch as the danger time is when the seedlings are beginning to come up, that is the time control should be begun, too. This is to dust the middles of the hills when first the soil begins to heave, and at least five times more, three days apart. The dust is made of gypsum ("fibre plaster" at building material dealers) and calcium arsenate, 16 parts to 1. The "fibre" need not be screened out, for the dust is applied not thru a dust gun but sifted on thru a sack of tobacco canvas or other loose material. Up to 20 dustings, all three days apart, have been found to pay.

More detailed information as to cucumber beetle control is found in Kentucky Circulars 262 and 343, obtainable from the county agricultural agent, or direct from the college of agriculture, at Lexington. All circulars are free for the asking.

THE DOCTOR'S WIFE WRITES

Dear Folks:

While the war reaches out to involve still other countries abroad, America is busy making plans for the summer months ahead. In the rural sections, gardens and farm lands are being planted. In the cities, air cooling systems are being repaired and installed.

All this is peaceful, happy America. Yet, we are in danger. Every year 44,000 persons in the United States and Canada have typhoid fever and about 4,400 die from this disease. This can mean only one thing. We grow careless, forgetting that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Simple rules, carefully followed, will stamp out typhoid fever. Here are a few of the rules to follow.

1. Be sure the water you use is pure. If you are not sure of the water you are using, send samples through the Morgan county health department to the state laboratory to be analyzed.
2. Keep all food protected from flies.
3. Be sure that the milk you drink is as clean as possible.
4. Be vaccinated against typhoid and have all the members of your family vaccinated. A vaccination against typhoid will usually protect one against the disease for two or three years. A typhoid vaccination causes a slight redness soon after the injection, but this disappears in a few days. In some cases, a slight headache and tired feeling, lasting about a day, follow.

5. All persons having typhoid or suspected of having the disease should be reported to the Morgan county health department.
6. Waste matter from a person with typhoid fever should be mixed with chlorinated lime or carbolic acid to kill the typhoid germs.
7. If you go camping, boil the water you use, unless you are positive it is safe.

Typhoid fever can be controlled by the use of pure water, clean milk, clean food, by proper sewage disposal, by control of flies, and by anti-typhoid vaccinations.

In the sixth inning of a seven inning game Catlettsburg got to Nickell to tie the score and take a three run lead. Coming to bat in the last inning behind 10-7, pinch-hitters were injected into the game and tied the score for the Warriors. Brown went back into the game but two hits and a wild pitch after two were out gave Catlettsburg a run to win the game.

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.
